REASON: Boating on Canyon Ferry has been steadily increasing over the years and shows no signs of slowing down. Canyon Ferry is a large body of water and boats are able to spread out and avoid each other. However, the public boat ramps and campgrounds are chokepoints where boaters converge creating potential safety issues. All commercial marinas around the lake have no-wake zones in place and several public boat ramps do as well.

This proposal seeks to proactively address safety issues near busy boat ramps and maintain consistent regulations at each major public boat launch by adding no wake zones to areas of heavy congestion. The department has taken complaints at many of the sites regarding high speed boating and has documented accidents at the Silos campground. The department believes that restricting these congested areas will increase safety for all users and decrease conflict. Additionally, several changes are proposed to the existing ARM rules to clarify them and ensure that wake zones are organized under the correct ARM rule for that body of water. The department does not expect the proposal will adversely affect wildlife, fishing, or recreation opportunities on Canyon Ferry Reservoir, and has received support of the recommended changes from the Bureau of Reclamation.
